

Snow Falls Over Large Portion of Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A light snow fell in south and central Arkansas today in what a U.S. Weather Bureau spokesman at Little Rock called a "somewhat unusual but not extraordinary" occurrence for November.

The snow ranged as far north as Searcy and as far south as El Dorado, near the Louisiana line, south Arkansas, reported snow and sleet.

The Weather Bureau said the snow was caused by a collision of warm air from the south with cold air moving from the northeast to the southwest across Arkansas.

Weather Bureau records show that the earliest snow in Arkansas occurred Oct. 20, 1925 at Corning, in the northeast corner of the state.

There have been several instances of snow in Arkansas late in November, a Weather Bureau spokesman said.

Today's forecast called for continued snow flurries and colder weather over much of Arkansas.

In the 24-hour period which ended at 6 a. m. today, Little Rock had .11 inch precipitation; all snow; El Dorado .11, mainly snow; Pine Bluff .01, including snow; and Texarkana a trace of snow.

At some points the snow continued for several hours past 6, when regular Weather Bureau readings are recorded.

The heavy flakes melted almost immediately as they struck paved streets, but lingered temporarily on roofs and car tops and in yards and fields.

At Little Rock, the snow had ceased by 10 a. m.

Minimum temperatures early today included 31 degrees at Fayetteville, 33 at Memphis, 33 at Little Rock, 32 at Memphis and Pine Bluff, 30 at Blytheville, El Dorado and Walnut Ridge, and 29 at Fort Smith and Texarkana.

Many State Roads Closed by High Water

LITTLE ROCK (UP) —The Arkansas Highway Department today announced the closing of two more highways because of high water, one in Woodruff county, the other in Cross county.

They bring the total closed since last week's rains to 13, including the St. Charles Ferry, across the White River in Arkansas county.

U. S. 64 from east of McCrory to Morton in Woodruff county was closed today. Traffic was returned from 64 south on highway 17 to Highway 38, and on 39 north to Morton.

Highway 42 from its junction with highway 149 to Twist was closed in Cross county.

Two other highways in Cross and Woodruff counties were under water, but traffic was still moving on them. One was highway 149 north to its junction with highway 42, in Cross county; and the other was highway 33 south of Augusta, in Woodruff county.

Other highways still closed were:

Highway 138 from Tillar to its junction with highway 4, in Drew county.

Highway 36, five miles south of Mount Vernon in Faulkner county.

Highway department officials said, however, it was possible the road might be opened during the day.

Highway 7 north of Camden in Ouachita county.

Highway 124 from Langburn to Sunnydale in White county.

Highway from Tucker to Grubbs in Jackson county.

Highway 124 between Appleton and its junction with highway 95, in Pope county.

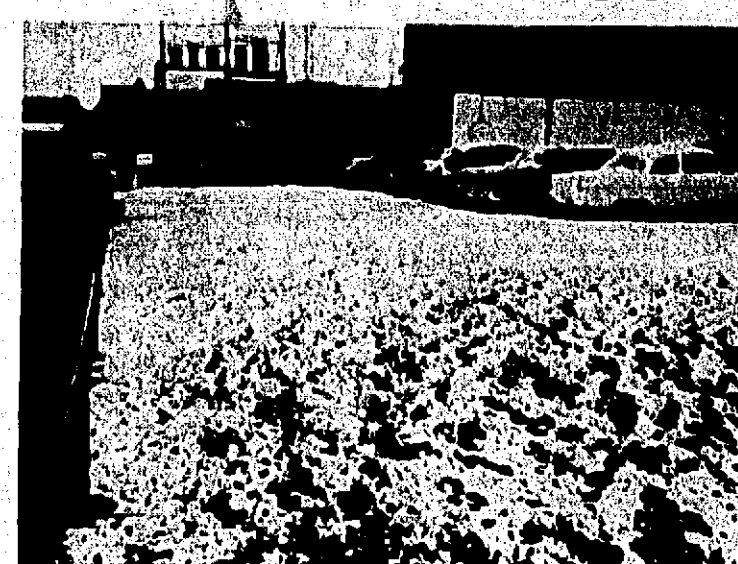

Highway 145 from highways 20 to 37, and 44 to 37, in Jackson county.

Highway 36 from West Point to Georgetown in White county.

Two sections of highway 42, from Birdseye to Coldwater, and from highway 37 to Hickory Ridge in Cross county.

Highway 41 from Foreman to Red River in Miller county.

Sanity Test to Be Given Murderer

WAUSTOMA, Wis. (AP) — Edward Gein, who admits slaying two women and pillaging the graves of at least nine other women, wept and prayed yesterday as the court studied his fate.

The 51-year-old bachelor was arraigned in Waushara County Court yesterday on a charge of first-degree murder and was bound over to Circuit Court for trial.

Defense Counsel William Belter and Dist. Atty. Earl Kileen already had agreed on a sanity test for Gein.

Under Wisconsin law, Circuit Court could commit Gein immediately to the Central State Hospital for the Criminal Insane without hearing the murder trial. Wisconsin does not have capital punishment.

Gein is charged specifically with murder and mutilation, last Sunday, of Mrs. Bernice Worden, 38-year-old hardware store operator in Plainfield, seven miles from his farm.

He also admitted slaying and butchering Mrs. Mary Hogan in December 1954.

Gein said Mrs. Worden and Mrs. Hogan were shot to death on impulse when it occurred to him they reminded him of his paralyzed mother, whom he had nursed until she died at their secluded farm home 12 years ago.

The Rev. Kenneth Engelman, 33, pastor of the Waustoma Methodist Church, told newsmen how Gein sobbed and prayed.

He said he watched "death notices" in newspapers and then opened the graves of women who had just been buried. He said that from some graves he took only the heads, while from others he took the heads and other portions of the corpses. He took a whole body from one grave.

He said he drew "great satisfaction" from donning a vest made from a woman's torso, put feet of human skin and a mask made of a face peeled from a skull.

After his mother died, he said, "I wanted to become a woman."

Garbage King Indicted for Extortion

MINEOLA, N. Y. (AP) — Garbage truck king Vincent Squillante was indicted today for extortion.

Squillante, self-styled godson of the murdered mobster Albert Anastasia, was held in a cell pending arraignment later in the day along with an indicted brother and an associate.

Squillante, 40, is accused of extortion and attempted extortion in the garbage collection industry in Nassau County, a Long Island commuting suburb of New York City.

Allegedly the racket boss of the 50 - million-dollar-a-year garbage and rubbish pickup business in the New York metropolitan area, he took the "Fifth Amendment" last Friday in Washington. He refused to answer questions before the Senate committee investigating racketeering in the fields of labor and management.

The county grand jury, meeting in an extraordinary night session, handed up indictments shortly before last midnight against Squillante, his brother Nunzio and Carmine De Caba, president of the Nassau-Suffolk County "Carment's Assn., an employer group.

All three were charged with attempted extortion, and Vincent Squillante and De Caba with extortion also, in connection with garbage carting contracts at Mitchell Air Force Base and its nearby barracks area.

The indictment charges that Angelo Recchia, who formerly had a contract to haul the Air Force base garbage, gave up the contract to the Squillante group and paid $3,000 to Vincent Squillante after being threatened with being forced out of business.

Immediately after the grand jury returned the indictments, County Judge Paul Widitz issued bench warrants to police, who picked up the defendants at their homes.

SS Representative Cancels Weekly Trip

Due to Thanksgiving Holidays, Texarkana Social Security Office has announced the cancellation of a regular trip to Hope during the week of Nov. 25-29. It had been previously announced that the representative would be in Hope on Friday at City Hall, but Roy West, office manager, said today that no trip at all would be performed this week. The social security representative will be in Hope again on December 5.

Farm-City Week to Be Climaxed Here Tuesday

Farm-City Week, sponsored by Hope Kwanlin club will be climaxed next Tuesday with all-day free parking space in downtown Hope. It was announced today by Harry Hawthorne, chairman of the club's agricultural committee.

Appropriate jackets were being printed today, and all parking meters will be covered for that one day — next Tuesday.

"The Kiwanis club of Hope wants to show its appreciation to our farmer-friends throughout the Hope trade territory, and merchants and other business firms will be offering special attractions for the event," Mr. Hawthorne said.

The Real Purpose

Continuing, Mr. Hawthorne said: "The real purpose of our program is to bring about better understanding of and appreciation for the American way of life. Its function is to create an impact in every home."

"This program should also lead to an understanding of our farm and ranch economy by urban people . . . an understanding of town and city problems by rural people . . . and a demonstration that no one is really self-sufficient, but rather that all are interdependent."

"Then, too, we believe that this program will be a realization by farm and city people of their individual citizenship responsibilities . . . and also a realization of the dependence of all people on the fruitfulness of the good earth," Mr. Hawthorne declared.

Farmers to Be Guest

Dr. Jim McKenzie, program chairman for the Kiwanis club during the month of November, said today that a number of outstanding farm people had been invited to be special guests of the civic club next Tuesday at a luncheon meeting at Hotel Bar-Joy.

Dr. McKenzie said that Monroe Samuels, prominent farmer of the DeAnn community and chairman of the Hemstead County Soil Conservation committee, would speak briefly, and present the farmer's viewpoint.

B. N. Holl, Hope chamber of commerce secretary, will follow Mr. Samuels and will point to vital relationships between the city dweller and the farmer.

Other farm people who will be special guests include: Buster Gilbert, Crossroads who is a member of the county committee of the ASC; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Schooley, Mrs. Schooley will represent the state of Arkansas in the outstanding woman 4-H club work at a Chicago meeting slated in the near future.

Others include: Loys Hampton of the Oakhaven area, recognized as the head of the champion Hemstead county farm family last year; Jimmy Arnold of DeAnn, who recently won laurels as an outstanding farmer; Richard Arnold of the county FHA committee; N. D. Coleman of Guernsey, president of the farm bureau and VA agricultural instructor; O. D. Middlebrooks, long a champion watermelon producer.

Mrs. Charles Wylie, home demonstration agent, will have as her guests the champion 4-H club boy, Ronnie Burke of DeAnn, Claudia McCorkle, champion 4-H club girl, along with Mrs. Glandon Huckabee, home demonstration counselor, County Agent Oliver Adams will be unable to attend because of a meeting in Little Rock.

Small Island Wants to Get a Doctor

BLOCK ISLAND, R. I. (AP) — A job paying between 12,000 and 15,000 a year is waiting for a qualified man to put in his bid.

Town officials estimate that's the amount a physician can earn annually by settling on the island, which has a year-around population of 800.

In addition, he will get a 10-room mansion rent free for six months and for only $75 a month after that.

The island has been without a doctor since Dr. Gregory M. Burdello left to set up practice in Westerly, R. I., last Friday.

Pentagon Plans Missile Launching Site

By C. YATES MCDANIEL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon appeared today to have pinpointed the first major launching site for the developing American intercontinental ballistic missile.

The surprise announcement last night that work will start by mid-1959 on a multi-million dollar missile site near Cheyenne, Wyo., capped these other developments in the expedited drive to obtain "new weapons in the wake of Russia's Sputnik launchings."

1. Military experts convinced Chairman Mahon (D-Text.) of the House Defense Appropriations subcommittee that the United States has progressed to the point where it is high time to start producing shooting hardware of the intermediate-range ballistic missile variety. Mahon, who a day earlier had said we were "seriously behind" the Russians, commented: "I look for production orders . . . very soon."

2. Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy stepped up his search for a tough-minded manager to take over full charge of such future space warfare weapons as the antiballistic missile missile, over which the Army and the Air Force are bickering.

The Defense Department announced that 65 million dollars will be spent to transform Warren Air Force Base, two miles west of Cheyenne, from a technical training school into a missile site. It carefully said only that the project is "required to support the missile program." Officials let it be known, however, that an intercontinental missile was the only logical weapon that would require such an expensive outlay and that could be effectively operated from the Wyoming location.

Old Rivalries to Decide Championships

By FRANK LITSKY
United Press Sports Writer

Four major conference football championships will be decided Saturday but they may be overlooked by fans watching a bunch of those no-holds-barred "ol' rivalry" games that pack a whole season's drama into one game.

All stake are crowns in the Pacific Coast, Atlantic Coast, Missouri Valley, and Ivy League conferences.

But even in some of these, it's the same itself and not the title that will produce most of the excitement. Oregon vs. Oregon State, for instance, will settle the PCC championship and Duke will be shooting for the ACC crown in its game against North Carolina. But winning over an old foe means more especially since Oregon and Duke already have landed bowl berths.

One of the headlines of course, is the "granddaddy" of all tradition games, Yale vs. Harvard which once again has nothing but glory and the "Big Three" title at stake.

Another highlight is the always rugged battle between Iowa and Notre Dame. Although Ohio State dethroned Iowa as Big Ten champion last week the Hawkeyes are seven-point favorites over Notre Dame for the men who make the odds feel the Irish must suffer a letdown after their startling 7-0 upset victory over Oklahoma.

Oregon which plays Ohio State in the Rose Bowl in five weeks, is an even-money bet against Oregon State. Duke looking forward to its Orange Bowl clash with Oklahoma is a seven-point favorite over North Carolina, but North Carolina State, like Duke unbeaten but tied in conference play, is a no-point choice over South Carolina and can back into the championship if Duke loses.

The Dartmouth-Princeton winner will take Ivy League honors, with Princeton a three-point choice. Houston rates a seven-point edge over Tulsa and a victory would keep the Missouri Valley Conference championship at Houston.

Rice and Tennessee, each a strong bowl candidate. Cotton, Sugar and Gator, also are favored — Rice by three points over Texas Christian and Tennessee by seven over Kentucky.

Ohio State, ranked second behind Michigan State by the United Press Board of Coaches, is only a three-point choice over Michigan. Michigan State which plays Kansas State and third-ranked Auburn which plays Florida State are such strong favorites that the odds makers declined to establish a line.

Oklahoma its 47-game record winning streak now only a line in the record book, tries to start a new one against Nebraska, which has beaten only Kansas State this year. Oklahoma is favored by 28 points.

In regionally televised games: East—Yale favored by 14 points

Henderson Mars Victory for A&M

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Henderson robbed Arkansas A&M of the glory of sewing up its second straight Arkansas Interscholastic conference title yesterday. The Boll Weevils were expected to secure the title by beating Ouachita last night at Monticello, and they did spank the Tigers 33-6, their second conquest of Coach Rab Rodgers' troops within a week.

But Henderson sent the Aggies sailing in the back door yesterday when its battling Reddies chased The College of the Ozarks all over the field and finally settled for a 0-0 tie at Arkadelphia.

Title on Line Against TCU at Ft. Worth

By ED WILKS
Of The Associated Press

There are a few incidentals such as conference titles and traditional battles to be decided in college football tomorrow, but the national championship is on the line at East Lansing, Mich. Michigan State will have it tough because it figures to have it easy.

The gimmick that makes sense out of that statement is this: Michigan State returned to top ranking in this week's Associated Press poll with a 7-1 record, meets Kansas State 3-5-1 in the game that closes the Spartans' season. That means Michigan State can't afford to merely beat the weary Wildcats. The Spartans have, to whip 'em to make an impression among enough to carry through the final two weekly polls and offset what figures to be an unbeaten season by Auburn.

Tough, second-ranked, Auburn (8-0) plays Florida State tomorrow and will still be in business next week, against Alabama. The Tigers, who outtrunked Michigan State last week, found their usual defensive successors in Texas A&M and Oklahoma as the 1-2 teams in the nation.

Titles are at stake in the Ivy, Pacific Coast and Atlantic Coast conferences. Dartmouth (6-0-1) can claim the Ivy crown even with a tie against Princeton (5-1-0). Oregon (6-1-0) has the Rose Bowl berth tucked away, but must defeat the Oregon State (5-2-0) for an undisputed title. Oregon State is the defending champ and can't repeat in the bowl role.

Duke has the edge in selection of the ACC's Orange Bowl representative, but needs a victory over North Carolina for the title. North Carolina State, barred from bowl play by the NCAA, meets South Carolina and can still claim a share of the championship.

Oklahoma, with the Big Eight title and Orange Bowl berth in hand, is the only other member of the top 10 in action tomorrow. The Sooners set out on another winning streak against Nebraska. Arizona State (8-0), the only other major college unbeaten, plays college if Pacific (5-2-2).

YWA Meeting

A program with Thanksgiving as its theme was presented by the YWA of the First Baptist Church on Wednesday, Nov. 20, at five o'clock.

After the program, the YWA Sponsor, Mrs. Lancy Hogg finished her report on the mission study book "Something New."

Those participating on the program were: Linda Purdie, Sandra Hobbs, Carolyn Barlow and Betty Rexroat, Charlotte Sasser was a visitor of the meeting.

Palsley PTA News

Palsley School's Fifth Grade observed National Book Week, Nov. 17-23 in a number of different ways. On Wednesday the group made a trip to Hempstead County Library where they examined and enjoyed the colorful new books on display there. A center of interest at the library was the mobile made up of familiar book characters.

The Book Parade was the chief event of Thursday. Wallace Byers presided at this program. Melvin Carver led the Flag Salute, and Tommy McKee introduced the parade. Pupils depicting familiar characters from children's books were: Jo Ann Camp, Charles Beard, Gene Biddle, Joe Chism, Gary Dean Clark, Gary Don Jones, Donald Martin, Roger McLain, Jimmie O'Neal, Ken Velvin, Dwight Walton, Mary Ann Bader, Judy Bratcher, Myrie Cox, Julia Ellis, Sharon Farris, Sara Gordon, Anne Hatfield, Betty Hedger, Patricia Huckabee, Carolyn McKee, Jeanette Moody, Ginger Sooter, Toni Williams, and Ann Walton.

The parade ended with the singing of "Books Are Soldiers Gaily Dressed." Mrs. Lillian Routon composed the music for this song. Other Book Week projects of this group include: A Movie on Monroe Let's "Gordon, the Goat," a Felt-O-Gram on Dr. Seuss's "Gertrude McFuzz," and a Shadow Play on List Well's "Jacobite Tells the Truth."

Miss Martha Sutton of Henderson State Teachers College is doing her practice teaching with Palsley's Fifth Grade.

England-Laumann Wedding Vows

On Saturday, Oct. 12, 1957 at seven o'clock in the evening the wedding vows of Mr. and Mrs. Joe W. England of Hope, Ark. and Alton Albert Laumann, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Laumann of Stratton, Neb., were read by Father Enderlin. The ceremony was solemnized in the Catholic Church of Hope.

The bride was lovely in her white satin wedding gown trimmed in Chantilly lace. Her fingertip veil of French illusion fell from a crown of pearls and net. Her corsage was of white carnations.

The maid of honor was Miss Laura Sue England, sister of the bride. She was attractively attired in a lime green tulle dress and wore a hat of flowers. Her corsage was of pink carnations. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Travis England.

Mr. Joe Laumann served his brother as best man. Mr. Jimmie England and Mr. Roy Mouser were ushers.

Mrs. England chose for her daughters wedding a green faille dress with black accessories and wore a white carnation corsage at her shoulder.

Mrs. Laumann wore a black Gaberdine dress with white accessories and a white carnation. Following the ceremony an informal reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Wulden. The bride's table featured a white wedding cake topped with the traditional bride and groom, a crystal punch bowl and a lovely arrangement of fall flowers, centered on a white linen tablecloth.

Miss Joan Laumann, sister of the groom, presided at the punch bowl. Mrs. John Hawkins of Shoemaker Springs served the cake to the wedding party and guests. Mrs. Roy Mouser, aunt of the bride was in charge of the bride's book.

Out of town guests were: Miss Bohita Cash, Combs, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Waleen Knapf of Magnolia; Miss Jeanette Downs of Bodew and Thomas Pearson of Magnolia.

WSGS Circle 5 Meets

In Fred Glanton Home WSGS Circle 5, of the First Methodist Church met in the home of Mrs. Fred Glanton, Monday night with Mesdames Vic Henderson and John Pierce as co-hostess. The Glanton home was decorated with lovely Thanksgiving arrangements.

The meeting opened with the group singing "Bringing in the Sheaves" followed by prayer by Mrs. Bill Reinhardt. The business was conducted by the president, Mrs. Sam Huckabee, and it was voted to have a Christmas party Dec. 12 at the home of Mrs. Huckabee. Each member is to bring a 10c gift and little stockings were given out for the Christmas offering to be put in. A prize will be given for the most unusual gift.

Special music was given by Mesdames Sam Huckabee, Alma Fox, Pat Gaddis, accompanied by Mrs. Ruth Ann Bruce. Mrs. Alma Fox who is moving to Texarkana this week was given a book of Devotionals by the Circle. Mrs. Paul McClellan, gave a very inspiring devotional on Thanksgiving. The program on "Reports from Homefields" was presented by Mrs. H. E. Patterson assisted by Mesdames Wade Benefield, Odette Johnson LaGrone Williams, J. C. Atchley and Miss Mary Louise Copeland before a beautiful Worship Center of the open Bible and a basket of Thanksgiving fruits and fall leaves.

The meeting closed with the group holding hands and repeating the circle benediction. The hostess served a dessert plate with coffee to 28 members and one new member, Mrs. Ern Jones, two visitors, Mrs. Arlene Downs and Mrs. Ruth Ann Bruce.

no charge would be filed but the case would be referred to a grand jury.

Rodgers said Mrs. Nash told him she prepared what she thought was a dextrose solution Wednesday with crystals from a bottle which she discarded in a waste basket. The bottle was recovered and found to be labeled sodium cyanide.

He said Mrs. Nash told him she took a blood sample from Mrs. Van Alstine and then poured two ounces of the solution into a glass for her to drink.

She quoted Mrs. Van Alstine as saying, "Oh, that tastes horrible." The patient then drank the rest of the solution and fell from her chair, Mrs. Nash told detectives.

"It dawned on me that I might have given her the wrong solution," she wept.

Dr. West arrived a few minutes later and administered an adrenalin injection. "But she was already dead," he said.

Mrs. Van Alstine made her summer home near Big Rapids, Mich., but spent the winters with relatives here. She was a widow.

More snow flurries and snow hit the Great Lakes region and southward through Iowa.

Wet snow piled up in depths ranging from 5 to 18 inches in southwestern New York state. Desert winds of hurricane force lashed areas in southern California yesterday, causing extensive damage. No serious injuries were reported as wind gusts up to 35 m.p.h. swept the region.

Gloves in leather, lace and other materials are dear to American women who like practicality along with sound fashion. They're guaranteed washable. New designs include these daytime gauntlets (left) in scarlet bordered in navy blue. Glace kid gloves in wicker tan (upper center) has leather-lined turn back cuff in true brown. Festive gloves (upper right) are luxuriously soft glace pull-ons in pale pink champagne tone. Back is ablaze with rhinestone trim in star motif. Bow-trimmed glove (lower center) in cottonwood beige has V-notched cuff. Luxurious black leather gloves (lower right) are slightly longer than the usual short length. Big white pearl buttons outline the edges. All gloves are color fast as well as washable.

DOROTHY DIX

Girl Has Found Her Prince Charming and Wants to Know How to Keep Him

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm to be married next spring to the prince of all men. How I wish him I'll never know, but I do know that I want above all else to be a good wife to him. Have you any rules for my guidance? I've asked several of my married friends what their ideas are, and have received plenty of advice from them, but it seems to me they aren't too happy married so I hesitate to follow their lead. Any hints you can give me will be appreciated.

GLENDIA

Dear Dorothy Dix: With your attitude I doubt if there is any need for rules. A desire to please, a determination to make a successful marriage are certainly big strides in the right direction.

If you'd feel better with one direct lead, here it is. Be sure your husband is always glad to come home. I'm sure there is no need to stress the clean house well-groomed lady, and no recital of the day's woes. Follow the dinner routine he prefers — maybe he wants to relax a few minutes before dinner, perhaps he prefers to feast immediately.

Have the meal ready in either case, with the table attractively set, and above all, be sure there's appetizing odors coming from the kitchen. They needn't be evidence of long preparation, either. Just a few brown and serve rolls popped into the oven just before your spouse arrives will do the trick. Take time occasionally to bake a loaf of bread. A home where the smell of freshly baked bread runs through the rooms can never be unhappy.

Best of luck to you in your new home.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm a girl of 18, have a very good job, and a boy whom I expect to marry within the next two years. We've known each other over three years now. Recently his family moved to a distant state where he is now working. He visited me once, staying

"He requires no special atmosphere to create. He writes any place—wherever he is—in an airplane, a car, at a desk, or walking. He concentrates, night and day on his songs."

"I have left him at midnight and come back in the morning and found him still there, wearing the same clothes. But the song would be finished."

"He works well under pressure. He composes mostly in his head, then plays it later on the piano. Sometimes, when he has finished a new song, he will phone me and sing it to me—and I write it down. I am the musical stenographer."

"He is a very warm man, and doesn't like ostentation. He doesn't like insincerity. He can see through human nature at a glance, and can spot a phony on sight."

"One thing that amazes me is that he has a phenomenal memory, and yet can be very absent-minded."

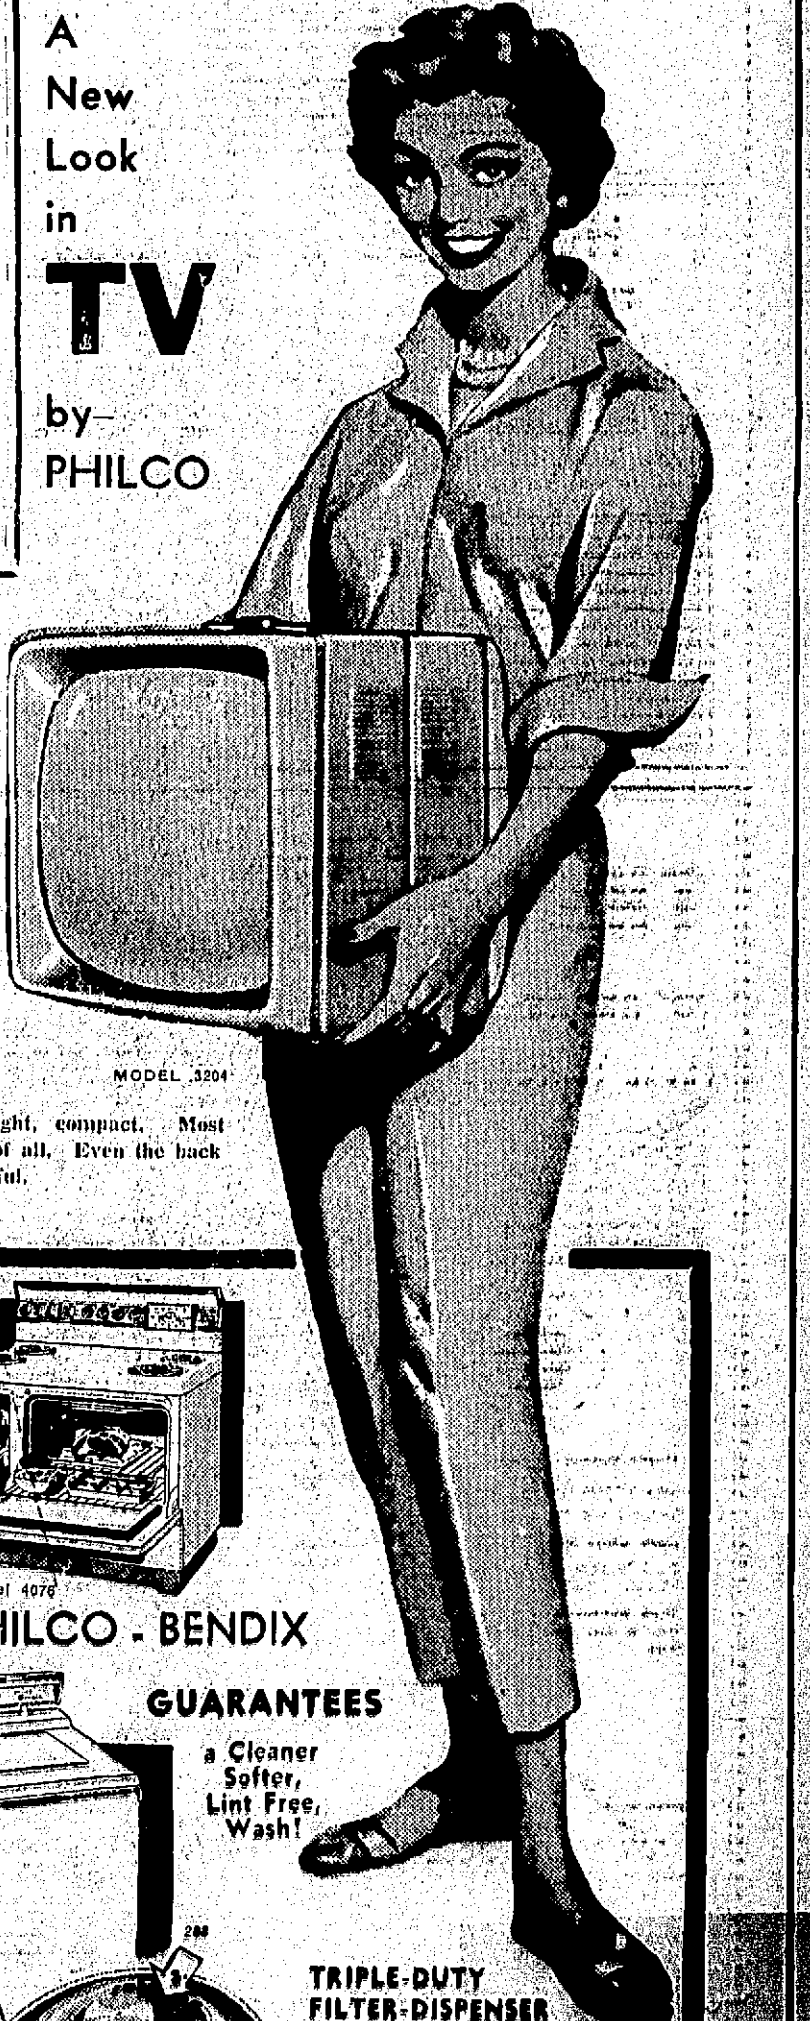

"He may walk out of a room and forget his coat and hat. But he can also concentrate and do three things at once—dictate a social letter, talk to his lawyer, and at the same time work out a new tune in his head. He is regarded as one of the best businessmen in the field."

"He doesn't get mad very often, and is tolerant of forms of music he doesn't care for himself—such as rock 'n' roll."

"What is his favorite of all the songs he has written? Although he says he has no favorites, 'I would say the one closest to his heart is 'God Bless America.'"

DIPLOMATIC DIP—Presidents Urho Kekkonen of Finland, front, and Asgeir Aegirsson of Iceland frolic in a pool at Akureyr, Iceland. The dip followed the traditional "sauna," famed steam bath of the region. The two leaders were in Akureyr to see the inter-Nordic swimming championships.

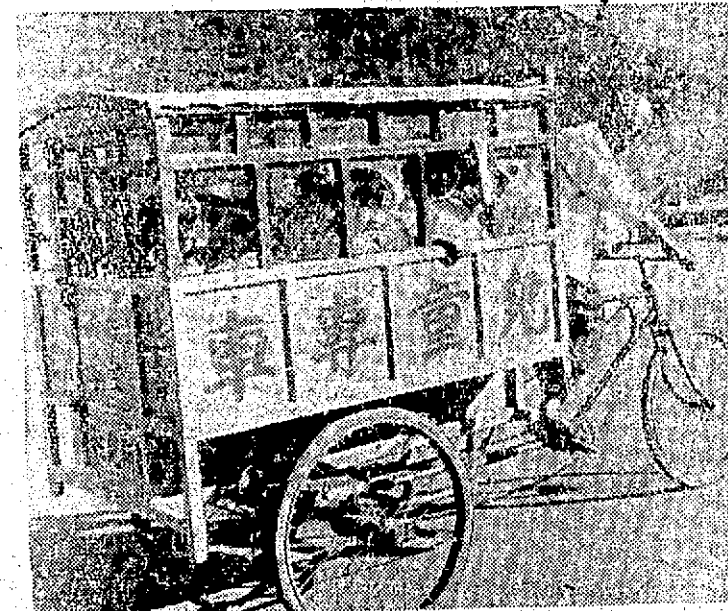

FOR THE FAIR—Modern to the Nth degree, this scale model shows what the French pavilion at the 1958 Brussels International Fair will look like. Made entirely of glass and steel, the structure will house displays representative of French culture. The building was designed by Guillaume Gillet.

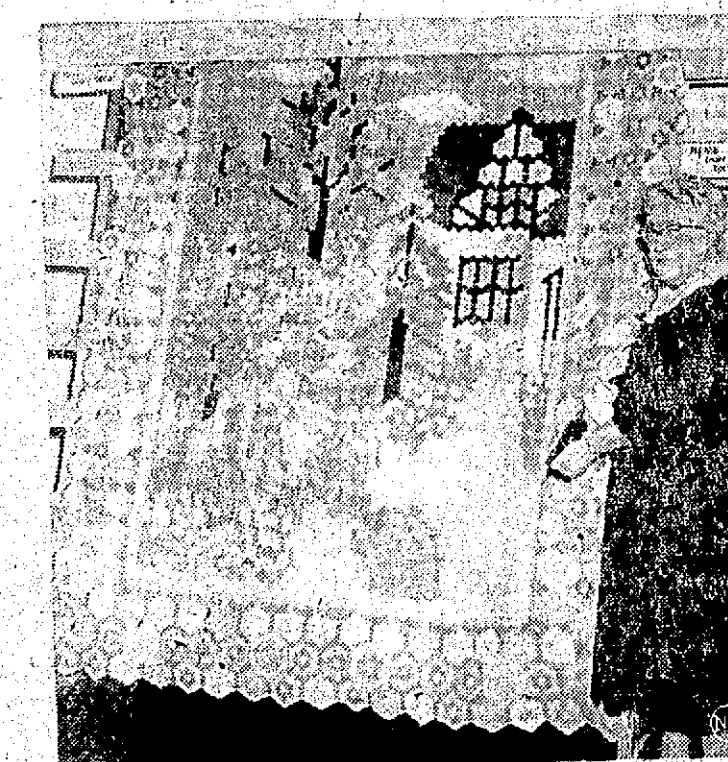

FREE RIDE—Louis Tonti received this letter which should have wound up in the "postage due" department, but nevertheless was delivered to his Trenton, N.J., home. The letter has a stamp all right, duly canceled by the Trenton Post Office, but it's an S & H green trading stamp, rather than a government issue. The stamps have a redemption value, but not with Uncle Sam.

BIG DIPPER—This huge dredge, which was built for use in the Panama Canal, is scooping out a deeper channel in the Detroit River near Detroit, Mich., in preparation for the St. Lawrence Seaway. Crew members of the dredge link hands to demonstrate the size of its 22-ton bucket, which can gobble up 15 cubic yards of river bottom in one bite.

KINDERGARTEN EXPRESS—A "pedibus"—a tiny bus on a bicycle-type framework—carries youngsters to kindergarten through the streets of Peiping. The "pedibusses," which are owned by the drivers, represent one of the few forms of private enterprise left in Communist China. This photo was made by a British correspondent.

NOT FOR SALE—Mrs. William Hamilton of Douglas, Wyo., proudly points to the quilt it took her 23 years to make. On exhibit at the Wyoming State Fair, the quilt contains 13,500 pieces in 27 different colors and depicts a garden scene. Mrs. Hamilton has insured the cotton quilt for $1,000 but wouldn't take $5,000 for it. "It's not for sale. I'm going to hand it down to posterity," she says.

HONORED—Harry W. Frantz, above, a United Press reporter, has been awarded a 1957 Maria Moors Cabot gold medal for outstanding achievement in the "advancement of international friendship in the Americas." The Cabot prizes, gold medals, plaques and special citations, are awarded by Columbia U.

RECOGNIZE HER?—This serious-faced Indian maid is none other than Kathryn Grayson, singing star of the '40's. Kathryn hasn't made a film in two years rather than appear in plotless musicals. She has the title role in "Lone Woman," a TV "Playhouse 99" production. She doesn't sing a note.

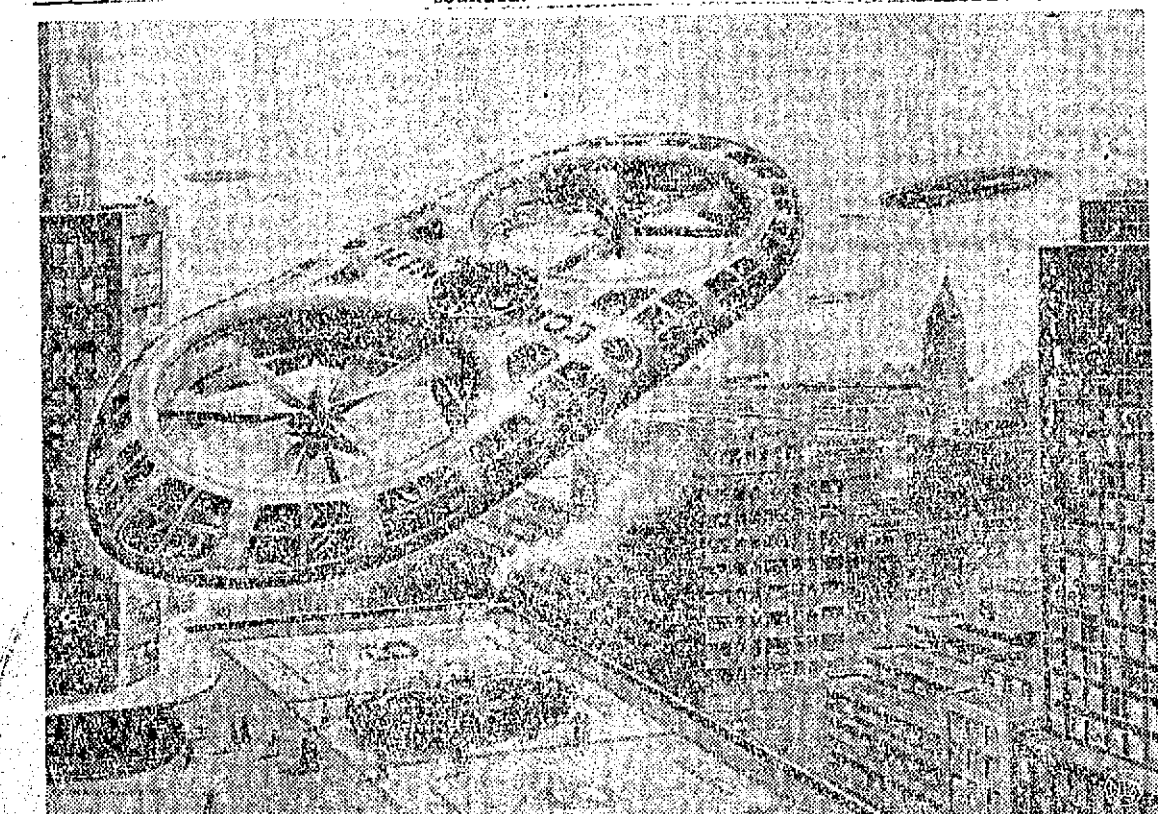

LOOKS BETTER ON HER—Providing a lovely "shescape" of her own, curvaceous Joan Gordon looks back, but not in anger, at the seaside in Miami Beach, Fla. Although the terry pullover beach shirt she's wearing was designed for masculine use, Joan does it full justice.

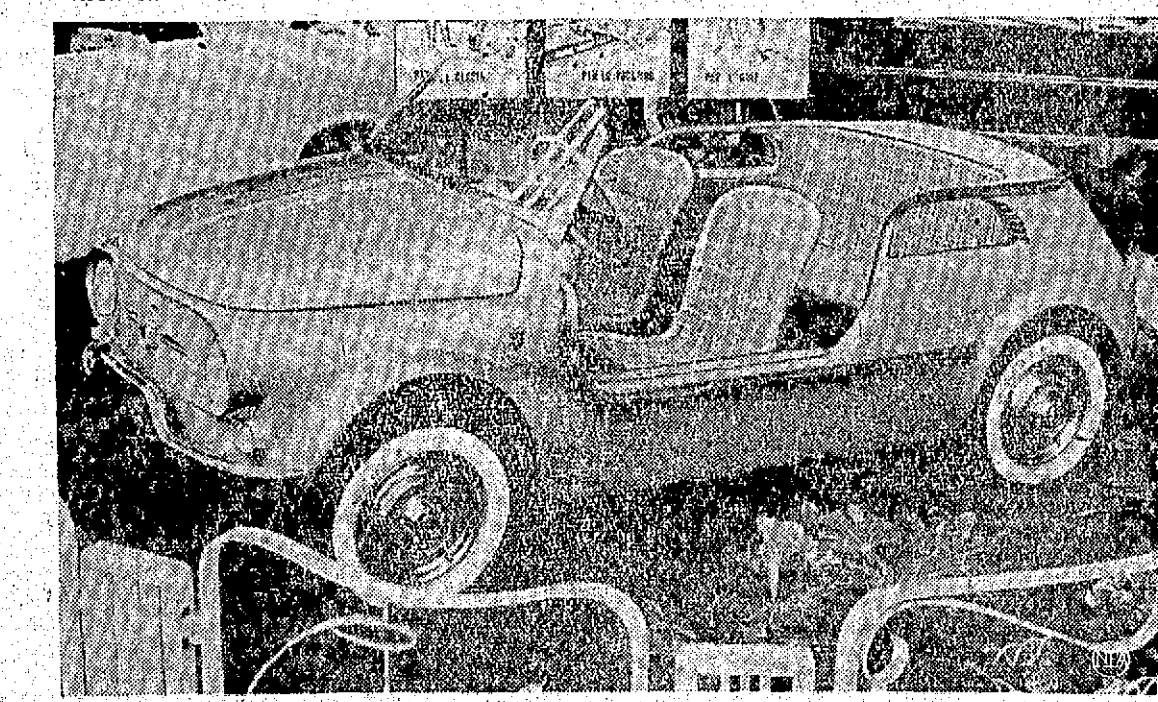

FIGURES ARE SECRET—Less exposed than most beauty queens, 19-year-old student dressmaker Saga Nishiga smiles for the cameraman after she was crowned Miss Tokyo, during the Greater Tokyo Festival. Miss Nishiga is 5 feet, 6 inches tall, and weighs 112 pounds, but the judges refused to divulge her other measurements. The silver crown, with 250 pearls, is valued at 5 million yen, about $13,000.

SPEAKING OF SIGNS—Guess what the sign says. You're right, "No Smoking." Just the same clouds of smoke pour from a fire at a giant factory in Weinheim, West Germany. The blaze broke out just five minutes after a regular monthly fire drill. Firemen delayed in reaching the blaze, because they thought it was part of the regular drill when the fire alarm sounded.

AERIAL BUS—Commuting will be a breeze in the future, according to a national science magazine, which envisions tomorrow's workers traveling from home to business at 100 m.p.h. via a ducted-fan flying bus like the one above. The design, originated by Charles Zimmermann of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, provides a control dome for pilot and copilot, and seats for 40 passengers behind large door windows which provide an unexcelled view. Artist-author Frank Tinsley of Mechanix Illustrated magazine depicts the craft, which will support itself on columns of air forced downward through its twin fans.

MOBILE LAWN FURNITURE—Recently unveiled in Turin, Italy, is this Fiat "Jolly" sports car in which doors and roof have been discarded, and traditional seats replaced by wickerwork. The car was designed by Turin designer "Ghia" for hunting and picnic trips and, according to the posters behind it, also for yachting and golfing. Styled somewhat like a streamlined Jeep, the vehicle features "Americanized" headlights.

CANDIDATE—Edmund G. (Pat) Brown, attorney general of California, announced in Los Angeles that he will seek the Democratic nomination for governor of the state. On the Republican side, Sen. William Stanford has already declared himself in the race against incumbent Gov. Goodwin Knight for the 1958 GOP nomination.

THREE-WHEEL FAMILY—A bicycle and a half is enough for the three Winkis who often startle the people of Cleveland when the family goes for an outing on their unicycles. Papa Al and daughters Mary Jane, 10, and Betty Jean, 7, are pictured enjoying an afternoon spin. Tagging along is Dingo, two-year-old Chihuahua, who usually steals the show.

"GIVE US THIS DAY"

... Thanksgiving Day. By executive authority, this is a day set apart each year for private and public thanksgiving and for praise to Almighty God for all His benefits. Thanks Lord, for the oppressed group of pilgrims who in the long ago blazed a trail that led to this land called America. Their deep longing kindled a spark that urged them on until they found freedom's land, America, where God is love. As families reunite this festive day, none will dare forget to raise a prayer of Thanksgiving to God for the simple, the every-day things; for life, for family, for food and shelter. The toll of church bells throughout the land will signal the call to worship for many, many people. Oh, that this could be one day when grace is said at every table in America. Then, may we together, repeat this prayer: "O Give thanks unto the Lord, for He is good: and His mercy endureth for ever." A-men.

YOU IN THE CHURCH THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions that family and influence for a better citizenship and a molding religious character. Statesmen today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then we with our children should go to the church of our choice on Sunday. "You in the Church and the Church in you" form a combination for good. Be a regular CHURCH GOER and a daily BIBLE READER.

Generally Cool Over the Nation

By The Associated Press
Thanksgiving Day is still a week off but the turkey which symbolizes the holiday for most folks already has taken over the supermarket spotlight.
Many stores are featuring the bird at prices that will hold through next Wednesday. Some stores make a practice of storing turkeys purchased by housewives. This averts a chance of getting caught in a price change.
Record-1957 production of around 81 million birds makes it possible to get the best turkey bargains in years. But prices, naturally vary from section to section.
Higher prices for some other meats also acted as a lever on shoppers to buy turkeys. Frying chicken were 2 to 6 cents a pound higher in many sections this week while pork chops were up in the same range in a smaller number of places. Eggs, too, are higher again but only by a cent or two.
Salad-minded housewives will be glad to learn lettuce is down in price this week.
Other outstanding vegetable buys are endive escarole, egg plant and radishes. In the good buy column are cucumbers, peppers and such vegetables from nearby fields as cauliflower, Brussels sprouts, cabbage potatoes and onions. The last two are augmented by good supplies of sweet potatoes and Idaho baked potatoes. Tomatoes are somewhat higher this week, putting them in the moderate buy class.
Apples, pears, oranges, grapes, fruit tangerines and grapes all are low priced and plentiful. In addition, almonds and walnuts also are available in good supply.
Apples are still an especially outstanding buy.

Porkers to End Season Saturday With Texas Tech

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The East and the West of the Southwest Conference come together for the first time tomorrow when the University of Arkansas and Texas Tech collide before an expected crowd of 27,500 at Waf Memorial Stadium here.

The Red Raiders, whose home base at Lubbock, Tex., is the westernmost stop for Southwest teams, was elected to membership last year but won't compete for the football title until 1960. "Ineligibility does not keep the Red Raiders from wanting to knock over its big brothers, however, and in Arkansas, DeWitt Weaver's team will be meeting a charter member and the only non-Texas member of the 8-team league.

Tech has lost both its engagements with Southwest clubs this season — toppling before Texas A&M 21-0 and before Baylor 15-12. Arkansas won two of six conference games but the Porkers go into their season's finale riding a 2-game losing streak that dropped them from second place into the second division.

The teams play opposite styles of football. Tech, in a losing season, runs a wide-open, daring offense, with a lot of passing. And the Raiders are willing to risk loss of yardage on trick ground plays.

Coach Jack Mitchell's Razorbacks, on the other hand, have not been in the thick of contention even in losing games — and the quick kick, the third-down punt, the cautious pass have become their trademarks.

Perhaps, since Razorback bowl hopes have faded conference title ambitions in limbo, the Hogs will open up. Quarterbacks George Walker and Don Christian both are capable of throwing the home-run pass and with Tech possessing a fine long-tossing quarterback Jerry Bell, the contest could well develop into a free-wheeling hark-back to the halcyon days of the Southwest when its league showed the pros how to toss a football often and effectively.

Arkansas needs to win its one to match last year's 6-4 record and assure a third straight winning season under the youthful Mitchell. Porker hopes were strengthened yesterday when trainer Bill Farrell

THE STORY: Jim Bennett doesn't like his detective agency's assignment. He is to break up a romance. On a pier, while he confers the case, someone hits him and he falls into the water.

CHAPTER V

Just before I went under I heard a far voice, like a voice in a dream. "There's a rope! Hang on!"

Something slapped the water beside my head. The glimmering spark burned again, feebly sputtering. It took great effort to lift an arm, but my fingers closed over a rope. I clutched it and the rope grew taut. I felt myself being towed, like a reeled-in bass with the fight all gone. Then hands grasped me under the arms, pulled me up over the edge of the cement pier. I sprawled face down on the cement, gulping air.

I lay there gasping, hugging the lovely dry cement. Presently, I turned over on my back, and opened my eyes. The sky and the stars swirled dizzily above me. I stared stupidly and after what seemed like a long time the stars stopped swirling. I waited a moment, decided that I was still alive, and tried to push myself to a sitting position. I couldn't make it.

The voice above me spoke again, "Take it easy, sir."

The moon came out from behind the clouds and I could see Wayne Howell quite clearly as he knelt beside me. "You came along at a nice time," I said.

He held me, supporting me with an arm.

"What're you doing out here?" I asked.

"I — I wanted to talk to you. I went to the hotel, but you weren't in. I walked around the town looking for you. Then I came down here to the pier — just a — a hunch, I guess."

"It was a marvelous hunch," I said sincerely. "Did you see the person who slugged me and pushed me in?"

"Slugged you?" he said in surprise.

I nodded grimly. "He wanted me to drown."

"That's hard to believe, sir," he said quickly. "I didn't see anything like that, but a man passed me on the pier walking rapidly away. I couldn't see him very well, and I thought it might be you. Then I heard you splashing, and —"

"All right," I said, and got unsteadily to my feet. Wayne Howell helped me. I waited a moment before I tried to walk. My head was pounding and it seemed that the pier was moving beneath my feet. I took a deep breath and in a moment things settled down. I moved slowly along the pier toward the hotel, with Wayne holding one arm. The lobby was deserted and there was no one to notice my soaked appearance. We went up the front stairs to my room and at the door I said to Wayne Howell, "Do you still want to talk to me?"

He nodded. "If you feel like it — but I can see you in the morning."

"You may as well get it off your chest tonight," I unlocked the door and we entered. Wayne opened the one window and sat by it while I got out of my soggy clothes and took a hot shower.

Then I put on pajamas got a bottle of bourbon from my bag and said to Wayne, "Will you have a drink?"

He shook his head. "No," he said and added wryly "I'm afraid my father drinks more than enough for both of us."

"You may have a point there," I said.

He hesitated a moment, gazing at his clasped hands. Then he looked up at me, the light glinting on his glasses, and said quietly, "I think you know sir. You're working for my father aren't you?"

"No," I told him, which was the truth.

"But you're going to," he said with faint stubbornness. "That's why you're here. He sent for you."

I said, "Wayne, at the police station tonight you said that your father had hired other detectives. Is that true?"

"Yes, sir."

"Were you in the army?"

"Yes, sir. Two years."

"Well, you're not in the army now, and I'm not a second lieutenant. And I am not your boss and I'm not senile. Forget the 'Sir'."

He gave me a fleeting smile. "Yes sir — I mean, all right."

"Good. Now listen, Wayne: I owe you a lot. If you had not come along tonight, I'd be crab bait now."

His eyes shifted and he said in a low voice, "Please forget it."

"I don't forget things like that. You've asked me a question. Under ordinary circumstances I would probably not answer it, but it's the least I can do for you. You suspect that I'm working for your father — against you. I understand that he wishes to engage my services for some such purpose, but I haven't had a chance to talk to him about it. Maybe it would help if you told me your side of the story. I gather that he's — ah — worried about your association with a certain woman."

He gazed at me steadily. "Are you going to do what Father wants you to do? Or try to do it?"

"Wayne, I don't know what he wants, not yet."

Stan the Man is 37 Years Old Today

By STAN MÖCKLER
ST. LOUIS (UP) — Stan Musial, the St. Louis Cardinals' indispensable "man," celebrated his 37th birthday today.

The slugging first baseman viewed the sands running out on a great baseball career with the optimism produced by his seventh National League batting crown.

Before starting his 35th season, highest in his last six, Stan was very cautious about future prospects.

"I'll tell you," he said in a low, bitter voice. "He wants you to come between Sandra and me. I don't know how he thinks you can do it but I don't want any more trouble, and neither does Sandra."

The last detective he hired followed her around, spied on her. I caught him and we had a fight. He thudded a fist gently into a palm. "I broke his nose."

pects. He was operating, he said at the time, on a "year to year" basis.

But now he figures he's good for two, maybe three more good seasons.

"Every man in the game has his own playing deadline," he said. "Each goal you set moves your sights up a notch when it is reached. I remember a time when it seemed I would have a tough time getting to my 2,000th base hit. Now I need only 43 for 2,000."

AIDED IMMIGRANTS

Organized legal aid work in the United States was begun in 1876 to help German immigrants, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Annual operating cost per student in U. S. public schools varies from a low of $136 in Bowling Green, Ky., to a high of $459 in San Francisco, Calif. This is the report of the Illinois Institute of Technology.
